

Honolulu Museum of Art School

Supply List

Taxidermy

Instructor: Mickey Alice Kwapis

Additional Information

We will supply everything you need to learn how to taxidermy an ethically-obtained animal from start to finish and take it home with you when you are done. Skills taught will include making a primary incision, skinning, properly splitting and turning facial features, cleaning the pelt, mounting, aftercare, bone cleaning, and wet specimen preservation. The entire class will also serve as an open forum to ask questions and discuss anything related to the taxidermy industry, mortality, etc.

To learn more about ethical sourcing of animals, please visit <http://www.mickeyalicekwapis.com/faq>.

Your fee is inclusive of all supplies and costs. Please make sure you choose the correct day you want to take the class. If this class is being purchased as a gift, please email correct contact information for the recipient to me in case I need to reach them. The instructor's email address is mickey@detroittaxidermy.com.

RSVP on Facebook using the link <http://www.facebook.com/mickeyalicekwapis/events> to network with other students and invite your friends. This is optional and just for fun! Your RSVP on Facebook doesn't count as a sign-up and you still have to pay - just an FYI!

Follow the instructor on Instagram (@mickeyalicekwapis) and Facebook at <http://www.facebook.com/mickeyalicekwapis> to stay updated on upcoming classes and special offers for students!